*Project Work in MCom, BCom, BCA and BA Home Science are social/behavioural/market-based research undertaken by the students, as per the prescribed syllabus, and on topics assigned by their departments. The project work and survey reports are, thus, individual academic tasks, involving primary and secondary data collection, undertaken under the direct supervision of the teacher concerned and not overseen by any external organization. Therefore, no certificates are provided by external organisations upon their completion.

Project Work in BSc- Physics is undertaken in the laboratory with the aim of developing a scientific and technical temper in the students and may include development of laboratory experiment, fabrication of a device or electronic circuit which is assessed by the teacher concerned, as per the syllabus. Hence, certificates are not provided by any external organisation upon the completion of the project work.

Project Work in BSc English and BA Physical Education is practical based and is used to increase the knowledge and understanding of students regarding the theoretical aspects of the prescribed syllabus. In the case of BSc English specifically, the project work is concerned with writing and language skills and puts the formal communication skills of students to test. Project work is undertaken under the direct supervision of the teacher concerned and thus, no certificate is provided by any external entity upon their completion.

PHYSICS PRACTICALS

The activities given in the section “Analysis of Experimental Data” are compulsory for all the students in the First semester.

The students are required to perform all the Nine experiments from each of the Units I and Unit II. The Practical examination will be held along with the second semester examinations.

The aim of project work is to develop the scientific and technical temper in the students and as such it may consist of development of a laboratory experiment, fabrication of a device or electronic circuit etc. The student will prepare a project report of about 10 pages. Assessment of the project work will be done on the basis of effort put in the execution of the project, report prepared, and viva-voce.

General Guidelines for Physics Practical Examinations :

Total : 50 marks

1. The distribution of marks is as follows :

(i) One full experiment out of section-A requiring the student to take some data, analyse it and draw conclusions. (Candidates are expected to state their results with limits of error).	20
(ii) One exercise based on experiment or Computer Programming from the Unit assigned to the student for the semester	7
(iii) Viva-Voce and Record (Practical file)	10
(iv) Project	8
(v) Internal Assessment	5

Note for Examiners :

- The marks scored under each head must be clearly written on the answer sheet.
- There will be one session of 3 hours duration. The paper will have two sections. Section-A will consist of 4 experiments from each of Unit I and Unit II, out of which an examinee will mark 3 experiments from either of units and one of these is to be allotted by the external examiner.
- Section-B will consist of exercises which will be set by the external examiner on the spot. The length of the exercises should be such that any of these could be completed in one hour.
- The examiner should take care that the experiment allotted to an examinee from section-A and exercise allotted from section-B are not directly related to each other.
- Number of candidates in a group for practical examination should not exceed 12.
- In a single group, no experiment to be allotted to more than three examinees in the group.

PLAY ITEM FOR TODDLERS

A toddler is a child approximately 1 to 3 years old, though definitions vary. The toddler years are a time of great cognitive, emotional and social development. The word is derived from "to toddle", which means to walk unsteadily, like a child of this age.

Because of children's growing desire to be independent, this stage is often called the "terrible twos." However, this can be an exciting time for parents and toddlers. Toddlers experience huge thinking, learning, social, and emotional changes that will help them to explore their new world, and make sense of it. During this stage, toddlers should be able to follow two- or three-step directions, sort objects by shape and color, imitate the actions of adults and playmates, and express a wide range of emotions.

For a toddler, it is important to prepare play items suitable for their age. The following play items are suitable according to their developmental milestones:

1. Problem Solving: wood puzzles (with 4 to 12 pieces), blocks that snap together, objects to sort (by size, shape, color, smell), and things with hooks, buttons, buckles, and snaps
2. Toys for pretend play: blocks, smaller (and sturdy) transportation toys, construction sets, child-sized furniture (kitchen sets, chairs, play food), dress-up clothes, dolls with accessories, puppets, and sand and water play toys.
3. Creativity: large non-toxic, washable crayons and markers, large paintbrushes and fingerpaint, large paper for drawing and painting, colored construction paper, toddler-sized scissors with blunt tips, chalkboard and large chalk, and rhythm instruments
4. Picture books with more details than books for younger children
5. Play equipment for motor development: large and small balls for kicking and throwing, ride-on equipment, tunnels, low climbers with soft material underneath, and pounding and hammering toys.
6. Soft toys: soft toys provide the perfect mix for developing sensory skills and encouraging social and emotional growth. Toddlers tend to grasp different colours, sizes and textures around them and soft toys are a perfect way for them to explore new things. Soft toys can give toddlers a sense of reassurance and familiarity. They are also able to help them to self-soothe.

Soft toys also help babies develop their social skills. Stuffed animals can help them immerse in pretend play.

The toys for toddlers must be:

- well-made (with no sharp parts or splinters and do not pinch)
- painted with nontoxic, lead-free paint
- shatter-proof
- easily cleaned
- must not have small detachable parts

ITEM SUBMITTED:

Stuffed toy – Elephant and Ball articles submitted.

Materials used:

Fabric – cotton, threads, lace, ribbon

SURVEY OF FOOD LABELS

Introduction:

The information on food labels is intended to help consumers become savvy about their food choices. The front, back, and sides of a package are filled with information to inform us what the food contains and to provide guidance in making healthier selections of processed foods. However, all the numbers, percentages, and sometimes complex-sounding ingredients can lead to more confusion than clarity.

Front-of-package (FOP) labels

This is the section of a food label consumers see first, which within seconds can influence their purchase. Food manufacturers can choose to display FOP symbols or graphics that highlight nutritional aspects of the product if they are favorable to health, such as being lower in calories or added sugar, but may leave out less favorable information such as being high in sodium or saturated fat.

These graphics promote a perception of healthfulness, which can be misleading if consumers rely only on these images without reading the Nutrition Facts panel for complete information. The authorities do not closely monitor these FOP graphics. All FOP labels are voluntary, which allows food manufacturers to highlight or hide the nutrition information they choose to help promote or preserve sales. If warning labels became mandatory, the pressure on manufacturers would increase to change certain products to improve their nutritional quality.

Health claims

These are statements reviewed by the FDA and supported by scientific evidence that suggest certain foods or diets may lower the risk of a disease or health-related condition. The Nutrition Labeling and Education Act of 1990 regulates these health claims, which must undergo review by the FDA through a petition process. The FDA has approved 12 health claims on food labels such as the relationship between calcium and osteoporosis; sodium and hypertension; fiber-containing grains, fruits and vegetables and cancer; and folic acid and neural tube defects.

However, just because a food contains a specific nutrient that is associated with a decreased risk of disease does not necessarily make the food healthy as a whole.

Research finds that consumers believe that a food carrying a health claim is healthier than a product that does not.

Nutrient content claims

These statements describe the nutrients in a food beyond what is listed on the Nutrition Facts label, intended to showcase a health benefit of the food. An example is “Contains 100% Vitamin C.” Most terms like “low sodium,” “high fiber,” “reduced fat,” and “good source of” are regulated by the FDA, and the nutrient amounts must meet specific guidelines to make these claims. Also regulated are comparative terms like “less sugar” or “fewer calories” comparing two similar products. However, these statements can mislead consumers about their overall healthfulness. For example, a bag of potato chips may advertise that it has 40% less fat and is cholesterol-free, suggesting it is a “healthy” food, when in reality even a “healthier” potato chip is still a high-calorie ultra-processed food offering little nutrition. Some terms are not yet regulated by the FDA such as “natural” or “multigrain.”

Side and Back-of-Package

The FDA oversees the ingredients listed on food labels. A packaged food must list the ingredients in order of predominance by weight. In other words, the ingredients that weigh the most are listed first.

The list may contain unfamiliar terms alongside the common ingredient names. These may be added preservatives or colors (e.g., sodium bisulfite, caramel color), thickeners or emulsifiers (e.g., guar gum, carrageenan), or the scientific names of vitamins and minerals (e.g., ascorbic acid, alpha tocopherol).

Ingredients like added sugars may carry many alternative names but are essentially varying combinations of fructose and glucose: evaporated cane juice, high fructose corn syrup, agave nectar, honey, brown sugar, coconut sugar, maple syrup, molasses, and turbinado sugar.

Sell-by, Best-by, and Use-by dates

These dates found on food products inform both the seller and consumer about the shelf-life and optimal quality of the product. They are determined by the food manufacturer's judgement for peak quality. Foods can still be eaten safely after these dates, with the exact amount of time dependent on the food product, but the flavor and texture may begin to deteriorate. These expiration dates are not required by federal law though some states may institute their own requirements.

- Sell-by date: The last date the seller should display the product on shelves for purchase.
- Best-by date: The last date recommended to use the product for best flavor and quality.
- Use-by date: The last date recommended to use the product for peak freshness; this date is important for highly perishable products like fresh meats, milk, poultry, and salad blends as their quality can quickly deteriorate beyond the use-by date.

INTRODUCTION

Ready-to-wear clothes usually come with a label that spells out how the clothes need to be cared for. However, the findings of a study show that most clothes made and worn locally by dressmakers and tailors in several parts of the world do not have any kind of label. Clothes must be taken care of to lengthen their lifespan so that buyers get the greatest value for their money.

Washing, drying, ironing, and dry cleaning are all aspects of caring for clothes, as are the right methods for storing and laundering. Knowing the precise fibre from which a garment is manufactured is also required to properly care for it. If producers want their customers to be able to maintain their clothes, they must include thorough care instructions. These instructions must be written in a style and form that is easy for customers to read and comprehend to be effective.

CARE LABELS

Care labels are written instructions on pieces of fabric that are usually stitched to the inside of clothes or other items. Labelling, is also regarded as a form of communication between the producer or maker and the consumer. They might be sewn to the back neckline, side seams, or waist seam of the garment. These labels are seen as a simple and approachable way to notify customers about clothes, including the size, fibre content, and care recommendations. Additionally, the care label code is simply expressed by visual symbols for washing, bleaching, tumble drying, ironing, and dry cleaning.

The care label's main function is to provide comprehensive instructions for handling the item. They provide guidelines to consumers about apparel care, and the best cleaning procedures to be used for a particular combination of fabric, thread decoration and construction techniques. Following the instructions on the care labels is an assurance that the appearance and fit of the garment will be maintained after repeated cleaning treatments.

From a manufacturer's point of view, damage to garments from incorrect cleaning methods can lead to complaints; costly customer returns and a bad image. Whereas accurate and clearly written care labels can prevent customer dissatisfaction. From a consumer's point of view, accurate and clearly written care instructions serve as a cleaning guide and influence purchase. Garments with ease of care are often preferred over garments with complicated or difficult to understand care procedures.

Many different care labelling systems have evolved over the world. Some have been established as a governmental regulation, while others are international standards.

FIELD VISIT REPORT: 2022-23

DEPARTMENT OF HOME SCIENCE

DATE: 2nd June 2022

PLACE OF VISIT: Govt Home Science College, Sector 10, Chandigarh

NUMBER OF STUDENTS: 31

NUMBER OF FACULTY MEMBERS: 01

OBJECTIVES:

- To provide exposure to the students about the work being done in the field of Home Science.
- To allow students to explore new environments, interact with other students and learn about entrepreneurship in a more immerse way.

OUTCOMES:

- The students were exposed to numerous self employment opportunities in the field of Home Science.
- They were able to observe first hand how small initiatives could also be profit making.
- Students learnt about the various schemes being run by banks and other financial institutions, especially for women entrepreneurs to enable them to start their business.

REPORT:

The Department of Home Science organised a trip to Govt Home Science College, Sector 10, Chandigarh to see their craft exhibition - RangKriti. 31 students from Bachelor of Arts, accompanied by one faculty member visited the college on 2nd June 2022 at around 11 am.

There were stalls put up by various departments of the college to showcase their skill in making articles ranging from apparel, snacks, baked goods, craft items, decoration material to herbariums and terrariums. The trip was a great learning experience as students were able to observe how students of different UG and PG classes had come up with ideas to put their craft and skill to use and make a profit from it. Most of the students were members of Club Saksham, the entrepreneurial venture of the college and they benefited greatly by learning from the budding entrepreneurs of the college.

REPORT ON FIELD TRIP TO RANGKRITI EXHIBITION

NAME: Bhumika

ROLL NO: 200028

CLASS: B.A. 3

INTRODUCTION:

On 2nd June 2022, we visited the Rangkriti exhibition, organised by Govt Home Science College in their campus. It was an enlightening experience for us as the exhibition was a platform to showcase novel and innovative ideas and products developed by students themselves.

OBJECTIVES OF THE TRIP:

- To inspire and motivate students by exposing them to innovative ideas and encourage creative thinking.
- To enhance understanding of entrepreneurship and connecting the discipline of Home Science with real world practical application.

THE VISIT:

The visit on 2nd June 2022 commenced with the students reaching the venue at 11 am. The entire college campus was bustling with life and activity. The entrance was decorated with bright colours and large blow ups of Oppo, their sponsors. There were stalls in the parking lot and even inside the college building.

The stalls had a variety of items for sale, which were made and prepared by students themselves. There was a mehandi and henna tattoo stall next to a gardening corner. They had fairy gardens, painted pots and small terrariums for sale. Bindu Rekha Kala stall had cushions, bags and runners for sale. Dreamcatchers and embroidered frames were also crafted by students for sale. Fabric painted, tie and dyed and batik fabrics were also displayed for sale. Handmade candles, canvas paintings, gift tags, painted pebbles, bookmarks, etc were also presented in different stalls.

The cafeteria, run by the Dept of Food and Nutrition, showcased healthy dishes and models to educate about nutritional facts. Stalls were serving delicacies such as mocktails, cupcakes, muffins, sandwiches, momos, chaat etc.

A few students had already started their businesses from home and were making good profits.

A fashion show was also held to showcase a variety of sarees from various regions of India.

LEARNINGS FROM THE FIELD TRIP:

- This was an experiential learning opportunity for us to explore various possibilities of entrepreneurship in the field of Home Science.
- We were provided valuable insights of how creativity, determination and resilience can transform innovative concepts into thriving businesses.
- This trip opened up our minds to endless potential of self employment by judicious use of resources.
- We also learnt about the financial and management aspects of running a business.

CONCLUSION:

The exhibition presented a diverse range of ventures and we had the opportunity to interact with the budding entrepreneurs. It was an enjoyable trip and helped to inspire us. We would like to incorporate some new ideas, which we have observed here, in the working of our club.

FIELD VISIT REPORT: 2022-23

DEPARTMENT OF SCIENCE

DATE: 25 March 2023

PLACE OF VISIT: Central Research Institute, Kasauli

NUMBER OF STUDENTS: 39

NUMBER OF FACULTY MEMBERS: 04

OBJECTIVES:

- To provide exposure to the students about the work being done in the field of microbiological Science.
- To allow students to explore new environments, interact with researchers of the institute

And know about their contribution in the medical field.

OUTCOMES:

- The students were exposed to the biomedical field and preparation methods of vaccines for diseases such as polio, measles and DTP.
- They were able to observe the working of autoclave and learn about the sterilization of glassware/equipment before experiment.
- Students learnt about how CRI has created vaccines for treating various diseases and ailments including cholera, typhoid, smallpox and snakebite.

REPORT:

The Department of Science organised an educational trip to Central Research Institute, Kasauli. 39 students from BSc 1st, 2nd and 3rd year, accompanied by four faculty members visited the Institute on 25th March 2023 at around 11: 00 am.

The staff of CRI was very cooperative, researchers from CRI took the group to different parts of the center. There we visited central Drug lab, R & D center Animal house. He told us that it was earlier known as Pasteur Institute and it is the only lab in Asia for quality control of all types of vaccines and anti – sera. There was an advanced bio security system which sterilize the drugs as well as human being operating on the system. Even students have been given demonstration of HPLC, pH – meter and AAS. They have also been well versed with measuring pH at accurate temperature. The students have learned a lot during stay at CRI Kasauli and open up their minds or scientific research activities.

REPORT ON FIELD TRIP TO AN ART EXHIBITION

NAME: ARZOO

ROLL NO: 210005

CLASS: B.A. II

INTRODUCTION:

On 26th August 2022, we visited an art exhibition, organised by Chandigarh Lalit Kala Akademi in the 16-17 Underpass. It was an enlightening experience for us as the exhibition was of the works of the renowned artists of the tricity.

OBJECTIVES OF THE TRIP:

- Getting creative ideas and encouraged creativity.
- This art exhibition was an exposure for us to a wide variety of art, including painting, sculpture, photography, digital art, and more. We came to learn about the different materials and processes that artists use to create their work.
- This exhibition inspired us to think creatively and to express ourselves in new and different ways.

THE VISIT:

The visit on 26th August, 2022 commenced with the students reaching the venue at 10 am. As I walked into the art gallery, I was immediately struck by the diversity of the artwork on display. There were paintings, sculptures, photographs, and even video installations, all of which explored the theme of freedom from different perspectives.

One piece of artwork that particularly caught my eye was a painting of a bird in flight. The bird was painted in bright, vibrant colors, and its wings were outstretched as if it were soaring through the air. The painting seemed to capture the essence of freedom, and it made me feel a sense of hope and possibility.

Another piece of artwork that I found powerful was a sculpture of a group of people breaking free from chains. The sculpture was made of metal, and the people's faces were contorted in expressions of pain and determination. The sculpture was a reminder of the struggles that people have faced throughout history to achieve their freedom, and it inspired me to never take my own freedom for granted.

As I continued to explore the exhibition, I saw other artworks that explored different aspects of freedom, such as freedom of speech, freedom of religion, and freedom from oppression. The artwork challenged me to think about what freedom means to me and what I am willing to do to protect it.

Leaving the art gallery, I felt inspired and empowered. The artwork I had seen had reminded me of the importance of freedom and the need to fight for it. I was determined to use my voice to speak out against injustice and to support the freedom of others.

REPORT ON EDUCATIONAL TRIP TO PANJAB DIGITAL LIBRARY , SECTOR 28 , CHANDIGARH

NAME: Simranjit Kaur

ROLL NO:200399

CLASS: B.A III

INTRODUCTION:

We, the students of BAI,II and III year visited the Panjab Digital Library , Sector 28 , Chandigarh , which is the pioneer in the field of digitisation and preservation of books and manuscripts not only in India but in the world. It was an enlightening experience for us as the visit was a platform to get exposure of excellent invaluable treasures of Punjabi Culture and society.

OBJECTIVES OF THE TRIP:

- To inspire and motivate students by informing them about the need of preserving invaluable treasures.
- To understand the destructive effects of time, age, and human negligence which make rare heritage of Punjab disappear

THE VISIT:

The visit on 1st April 2023 commenced with the students reaching the venue at 11 am. One of the Researchers from PDL briefed us about the library and he elaborated that the Panjab Digital Library is a voluntary organization digitizing and preserving the cultural heritage of Panjab since 2003. With over 65 million digitized pages, it is the biggest resource of digital material on Panjab. There are many historically significant documents stored and made available online. Its scope covers Sikh and Punjabi culture. The library funded by The Nanakshahi Trust was launched online in August 2009. Its base office is located at Chandigarh, India.

The library's mission is to locate, digitize, preserve, collect and make accessible the accumulated wisdom of the Panjab region, without distinction as to script, language, religion, nationality, or other physical condition

LEARNING FROM THE FIELD TRIP:

- Students gained insights into the rich cultural and historical heritage of the Punjab region.
- The library contained digitized manuscripts, books, photographs, and other materials that depict the evolution of the culture and history of the area.
- Students enhanced their research skills by learning how to locate, access, and analyze digital resources effectively

CONCLUSION:

The visit might inspire students to delve deeper into specific topics they encounter in the digital library. Overall, a visit to the Panjab Digital Library was an enriching experience, offering students a blend of cultural, historical, technological, and research-oriented learning opportunities.
