FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE POLICY TO TEACHERS

Introduction:

This policy proposes to offer financial assistance to teaching staff so they can become members of professional bodies; attend workshops/seminars/conferences and present/publish research papers at the college, state, national, and international levels in relevant fields. The policy provides a platform to teaching faculty to share their expertise and experiences in research.

Purpose:

The following are the primary goals of financial assistance:

- Enhance the research aptitude/academic and administrative skills of the faculty;
- Improve the educational background of the teaching staff;
- Establish a positive environment for teachers to share ideas and knowledge;
- Upgrade the depth of subject knowledge of teachers from renowned academicians and research institutions;
- Enhance the faculty's interaction with the outside world.

Eligibility:

Financial assistance would be provided to full time teaching faculty of institute to become members of professional bodies; attend workshops/seminars/conferences and present/publish research papers at the college, state, national, and international levels in relevant fields

The application process for the scheme:

Teaching staff who want to apply for financial assistance must submit their application in the prescribed format and their registration receipt to the college accountant no later than one month after attending the workshops/seminars/conferences/presentation and publishing of research papers.

Procedure for approval:

The teaching staff need to timely submit the certificate of the professional membership; workshops/seminars/conferences attended and research papers presented and published. College accountants may disburse funds with the principal's consent upon the submission of the necessary certificate.

A STUDY OF FACTORS OF E-SATISFACTION
Pooja Malhotra
Assistant Professor, Guru Gobind Singh College for Women, Sector 26 Chandigarh, India

ABSTRACT

The primary objective of the study is to identify the factors that influence the satisfaction of customers in the online shopping industry. The study is based on a survey of 100 customers who have used online shopping services. The results of the study show that the most important factors influencing customer satisfaction are the ease of use of the website, the speed of delivery, and the quality of customer service. The study also found that customers are more likely to be satisfied with online shopping when they receive prompt responses to their queries and when the website is easy to navigate. The study has several implications for practitioners and researchers. It highlights the need for online retailers to focus on improving the user experience and providing excellent customer service. It also suggests that researchers should explore the relationship between customer satisfaction and other factors such as loyalty and repeat purchases.

KEYWORDS OF FACTORS OF E-SATISFACTION

The contemporary era's rapid and ongoing transformation in information technology has made everything possible for everyone. By allowing for speedier communication, the internet has significantly changed how the online world operates. Both businesses and customers are now aware of the advantages of online marketing. The majority of people prefer using the internet because of its dependability, speed, practicality, and convenience. Marketing of goods or services on the Internet is referred to as "internet marketing," usually abbreviated as "e-marketing," "web marketing," "online-marketing," or "e-marketing." The traditional way of shopping has changed as a result of the internet. A customer can get involved almost wherever they choose, without having to go to a certain store.

The variety of goods and services offered by the online travel industry has given clients simple access to all the amenities and services. Online service providers in this situation cannot dominate the market only through price wars and searches. Online service providers in this situation cannot dominate the market only through price wars and searches. Online service providers in this situation cannot dominate the market only through price wars and searches. Online service providers in this situation cannot dominate the market only through price wars and searches.

ABSTRACT

Usage of social Media is becoming popular all over the world in the recent years at a progressively rising rate. The coming up of social media in corporations has introduced a new way of communication amongst employees. But despite of this increased usage of social media by employees in the organizations there is very inadequate understanding of the motivations to use of social media for work purposes. And especially after the outbreak of covid19 situation worldwide, employees are required to work from home using social media. Thus, the role of social media has significantly increased for job related activities of the employees before and during covid19 times. Responses from 600 employees from IT sector were used to observe the effect of motivation on social media usage for both before and during the pandemic situation. The study found that utilitarian motivation has impact on social media usage under both the situations i.e. before and during covid19 whereas the impact of hedonic motivations is found to be insignificant before and significant during covid19 situation.

Keywords: Social media, motivations, utilitarian, hedonic, covid1, work from home.

INTRODUCTION

Social media is becoming popular and are progressively used in almost all the companies whether small, medium or large. (Lee et al., 2008; Guano, 2008; Leffteriotis & Giannakos, 2014). In spite of widespread use of social media, little is known on its usage in the organizations (Denyer et al., 2011).

This study concentrates on employees in order to examine the motives why the employees are making use of social media for their job-related activities. Further in this study such motivations to use social media for work purpose have also been studied during the covid19 times. Subsequent to its advent in Wuhan city in China, the Coronavirus has now spread to nearly the whole world capturing a substantial toll of human lives. In the ongoing covid19 outbreak, the social media also observed extraordinary traffic (Dixit, 2020). In this situation of physical risk, and social distancing, the role of the diverse mass media networks and social media cannot be understated (Hussain, 2020). Covid-19 epidemic has imposed the idea of 'Work from Home' into a formally assigned, stringently prescribed rule. As the employees have faced a new atmosphere, there is a necessity to understand their professional social media usage before and during covid19 situations.

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

There are studies related to use of social media in context of companies. There are also studies related to usage of social media by employees within the organisation by making use of enterprise social media (Alahmad, Pierce, 2018; Huang, Singh, & Ghose, 2011; Suh & Bose, 2010) and social networking platform in public.

Social media usage at workplace

According to a research by TeamCase, a human resource service concern, personnel spent on an average 2.35 hours every day on social media. It is not only being used by companies to tie to customers and promote their products /services but as well has become part of professional-life of employees at workplaces. It has brought revolution at workplace in several ways. (Ferreira & Plessis, 2009). (Prabhudesai, 2011) in the study of 26 nations found that only 29% of the workforces use social media to profile themselves as personnel, however in India 78% of the employees use social media to profile themselves to find occupations and many of them use it to prepare themselves for a job interview. For the speedy growth of the social media and their users (Jarrahi & Sawyer, 2012) the necessity for examination of the use of social media for work related objects has arisen. And moreover, during covid19 pandemic situation to follow the social distancing norms, employees are under obligation to work from home through online mode. For this reason, the platform has become even more important.

Motivations to use social media for job purpose

One of the recognized motivational types is utilitarian and hedonic motivations (van der Heijden, 2004; Kim and Hwang, 2012; Wakefield and Whitten, 2006) which we will be using in the present study. Both hedonic and utilitarian effects social media usage intensity (Racke and Bonds-Racke, 2008; Sahrahimayyan et al., 2008; Hu et al., 2011; and Alarcon-Sel-Amo et al. (2012). Utilitarian motivations are derivative of an economic (i.e. work-oriented) work attitude and work-oriented motivations (Chu et
